++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Very wet, especially in the south and west. Coastal gales.

Today:
Another cloudy and very wet day, with persistent rain throughout. Southern and western areas will see the heaviest outbreaks, especially over the Brecon Beacons. Slightly drier conditions in the northeast. Mild, despite strong to gale force southerly winds. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
The rain, still heavy at times, will gradually clear to the east through the evening. All areas dry from midnight, with some clear spells developing later. Winds becoming light. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Sunday:
Dry through the morning, with a few sunny spells and light winds. Showers, locally heavy, are likely in the afternoon, and light rain may push into the southeast later. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Dry and bright on Monday after early rain in the east. Strong winds return on Tuesday and Wednesday, with coastal gales, and rain occasionally clipping western areas. Mild throughout.
